Crypto Chasers Confidential

Weekly Report for January 29th, 2018 to February 2nd, 2018

Weekly Summary

In short, we got "rekt" this week as the crypto kids would call it. Fear, uncertainty and doubt campaigns have been attacking the cryptocurrency market from all sides - notice how every single time a government releases a statement regarding their stance on cryptocurrency there is always a large mass of articles released taking those statements and twisting them to their extremes.

Note we do not endorse or sponsor any of the sources we are linking below - they're just there for your information

January 29th, 2018

Bitcoin Price Analysis from Barchart

Below Taken from Crypto Insider

According to Reuters, hacked Tokyo-based cryptocurrency exchange Coincheck will repay users $425 million worth of NEM.

Over on Reddit, a user pointed out that more than 1 million people are now waiting to gain access to mobile app Robinhood's cryptocurrency trading platform.

According to Business Korea, The New York State Department of Financial Services was behind the recent investigations into South Korean banks connected to cryptocurrency exchanges. The U.S. seemed concerned that these exchanges could be used to get around sanctions against North Korea.

Over on Reddit, a user pointed out that SegWit adoption hit an all-time high in terms of the overall percentage of Bitcoin transactions over the weekend.

According to a Forbes contributor, Silicon Valley's bitcoin apps are now about price speculation rather than cheaper payments.

January 30th, 2018

Market update from Cryptocompare

Facebook Bans Ads Promoting Cryptocurrencies

Below Taken from Crypto Insider

Over on Twitter, the Crypto Korean account pointed out that Samsung is now producing chips for a bitcoin mining hardware manufacturer based in China.

According to Bloomberg, governments are worried that bitcoin could become the next Swiss bank account.

According to Bloomberg, the SEC has frozen the crypto assets of an initial coin offering (ICO) that claimed to have raised $600 million.

Over at The Hill, an opinion piece by former US Senator Judd Gregg regarding the ability of bitcoin to compete with existing fiat currencies was published.

According to Bloomberg, U.S regulators have subpoenaed cryptoasset exchange Bitfinex and Tether.

January 31, 2018

Crypto Coin Mastery January 31 market analysis update

Crypto Town Market Report

South Korea Won't Ban Trading: South Korea does not intend to ban cryptocurrency trading, the country's finance minister has said.

ICO Alert minute by minute for January 31, 2018

February 1, 2018

Dowbit February 1st Crypto News Brief

Crypto Town Market Report

ICO Alert minute by minute for February 1st, 2018

CoinTelegraph Article "Fact or FUD?" excerpt below

All of the top 50 cryptocurrencies fell by as much as 18.05 percent in the 24 hours to press time, Thursday, Feb.1, as fresh volatility in Bitcoin undermines previous sideways growth.

Cross-exchange data from CoinMarketCap shows the broad copycat effect of Bitcoin's drop on altcoin markets. Only six altcoins in the top 50 had made 24-hour gains at press time, with these nonetheless trending downwards.

February 2, 2018

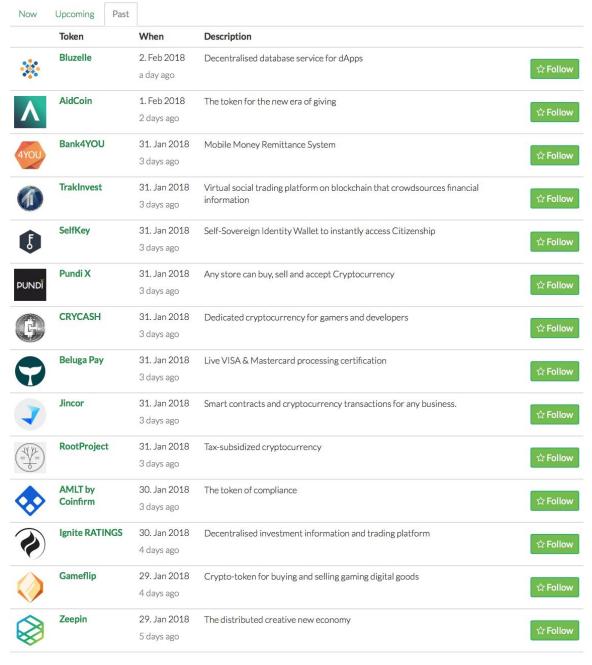

Steemit detailed report for daily crypto news February 2nd

Headlines on that report include:

- Tezos Has a New Board, But What Does It Mean for the Money?
- Coinbase Sends American Clients IRS Tax Form 1099-K

- The Tax Man is Finally Catching Up On the Crypto Market
- AMD Increases GPU Production to Match Crypto Mining Demand
- BitFury Group Officially Unveils Crystal, a Blockchain Analysis Tool

ICOs last week

Above From TokenMarket ICO Calendar

Upcoming ICOs can be viewed at ICOAlert

Conclusion

HODL or Buy the Dip

Disclaimer: This is not investment advice, please do your own research (DYOR)